

March 2019

Brexit Frequently Asked Questions for Corporates

You and your transactions

Do I run exchange rate risk if I do business with the UK after Brexit?

Yes, you are exposed to exchange rate risk on transactions with the UK. This is nothing new, because the UK has always maintained its own currency. Economic forecasts expect that, in view of the uncertainty surrounding the Brexit, there will be an increased risk of currency fluctuations in the exchange rate between the British pound and the euro.